Post Office Dedication Nov. 11

HIGH OFFICIALS TO BE IN ATTENDANCE

The completion of Grayling's new Post Office building involving Congressional appropriation of $70,000.00, is a commemorative event for both the community and the U. S. Post Office Department and the U. S. Treasury Department, and a dedication celebration befitting the occasion will occur on November 11th. Armistice Day. The day being a significant one, joint dedication and Armistice Day ceremonies will be held, with the cooperation of the Grayling Post No. 106 American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps. The program is planned for the participation of everyone in the observance of an interesting program.

The Hon. W. E. Reynolds, Assistant Director of Procurement, Public Buildings Branch, Washington, D. C., has named an official dedication committee consisting of Congressman Roy O. Woodruff, Postmaster James McDonnell, and Mayor George Burke. The importance of the worthy Post Office Building befitting to the City of Grayling has exerted the efforts of the committee to make the post office dedication one of Grayling's biggest events. The Postmaster General, James A. Farley, is sending his official representative, the Hon. James J. Doheny, Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, Sixth Division, who together with the Hon. Lieut. Gov. Leo Nowicki, and the Hon. Theodore L. Fry, State Treasurer, assures an unusually interesting program.

The festivities begin at the schoolhouse at 3:00 P. M. with all students joining the Drum and Bugle Corps and marching to Shoppenagons Inn where they will be joined by other civic and fraternal organizations. The line of march follows on Michigan Ave., east to the new Post Office building where the program will open.

Constructed Ahead of Schedule

Unusual progress was made in the erection of the Post Office building and it is the first building in Michigan completed from the 1936-1937 Emergency Public Building program for Michigan, all other post office buildings in Michigan still being under construction. After an allotment for a post office building is given a community, it is usually a lengthy duration of time from the date of acquisition of the site and start of actual building operations. However, in Grayling's case the procedure has been simultaneous, and the construction of the building was three months ahead of the contemplated schedule.

Seating arrangements are limited for the banquet at 7:00 P. M. in the Michelson Memorial Church. Early reservations are urged in view of the brisk demand. The menu consists of a full-course turkey dinner at $1.00 per plate, and tickets are now on sale at Mac & Gidley's, Chris Olsen's, and the Shoppenagons Inn.

Hallowe'en Party A Big Success

The annual Hallowe'en party was held at the high school last Saturday night and while the attendance figures are hard to compute it is certain that 432 favors were passed out as the last act on the program. The assembly room was a pretty crowded place and when the party broke up, amid plenty of noise from the favors passed out, it was adjudged to have been a successful venture in the field of entertainment.

The idea of a general Hallowe'en party for the youngsters was first put into reality four years ago and the schoolhouse has been the scene of lots of action each Hallowe'en Eve since that time.

The first part of the program was a costume parade. The parade formed in the hall outside the assembly room and came in, filing over the stage one at a time. After this the Stanley Marionette show was staged. The puppet show is a novelty here, and the clever acting and smart lines that helped to carry the action made a hit with the youngsters. Of especial interest was the Major Bowes amateur act, which was cleverly worked out. The School Board paid for the appearance of the marionettes so that no admission would be necessary for anyone.

Following this show there was a group of amateur talent on hand which was then presented, after which the favors were given out. The children received their favors from the hands of the marionettes, which also gave them a chance to see the puppets at close range.

Prizes were awarded to six costume acts which in the opinion of the judges merited especial recognition. From the large number of entrants it was difficult to make selections. The six chosen were Sandy Thompson, as a tramp; Betty Smith, an Indian girl; the three Murphy sisters, who were very neat as little Dutch girls; Burton Peterson, the vivacious travelling salesman; Junior Trudeau, as a Chinaman; and Barbara Young, who was a Hawaiian dancer.

The amateur acts which were awarded prizes were James Moore, song; Gloria Jean Cunningham, song; and Emily Giegling, dance.

The complete list of amateur acts follows:

James Moore, song.

Beverly Peterson, acrobatic and tap dance.

Mildred Craft, Eugenia Wheeler, Alma Bidvia, song.

Junior Woods, song.

Janice Entsminger, song.

Jane Bugby, song.

Gloria Jean Cunningham, song.

Cecilia Craft, song.

Burton Peterson, solo dance.

Barbara Borchers, acrobatic dance.

Teddy Cody, trumpet solo.

Jack Barber, acrobatics.

Bobby Smock, song.

Noreen Elliott, song.

Rosemary LaBrash, song.

Patsy Heric and June Underwood, tap dance.

Elna Mac Jenson, song.

Gerald Worden, song.

Gloria McDaniel, poem.

The persons who served in the difficult capacity of judges were Mrs. Chas. Moore, Mrs. Herbert Trudeau, Mr. Dan Babbitt, and Mr. Roy Milnes. Mr. Roberts capably served as master of ceremonies, and Mr. Stripe, Mr. Clough, and Lee Lovely assisted. The prizes were small in value, but of some use to the recipients. All in all it was quite a function.

Grange Notes

Mr. and Mrs. George Skingley were delegates to the State convention which was held in Alpena last week, returning home Thursday evening. The convention was largely attended, with 280 delegates present. The banquet tables which were set for 750 people were filled and more than 500 people had to be turned away. Mr. and Mrs. Skingley will give a report of the meeting at the next meeting, which is to be held on November 6th. Every body is requested to be present.

Join The American Red Cross

Unprecedented demands have been made upon the Red Cross along many fronts during the past year. If all the work and its activities were written and bound it would be a huge volume.

It offers in its work not only help to those in need, but carries out a program of nursing, employing a staff of several thousand nurses, available not only in sickness but to aid in carrying on classes in which are taught preventatives of epidemics, hygiene, home nursing, and care of children. In many instances Red Cross nurses are working in the schools. One of the major parts of this line of work is the provision that has been made for giving blood transfusions quickly when they are needed. The story of the visiting nurse needs no repetition.

Furniture Prospects

If it is true that recovery in this country, stimulated by prospect of inflation and assurances of continued government pumping, reached a temporary peak last winter, then warnings of two Grand Rapids furniture accountants can be viewed with significance.

Accountants Seidman and Seidman declared that the furniture industry has been slipping in 1937. In fact, the last three months show decreases in comparison with corresponding months in 1936.

But it isn't quite so bad as it is.

While new orders have declined from a 50 per cent higher margin for the first quarter, to 18 per cent for the second quarter, and 10 per cent for the third quarter, the furniture industry is still 21 per cent ahead in new orders as compared with the first nine months of 1936. Payrolls are 35 per cent higher.

The decline in furniture orders is blamed by the financial experts on curtailment of residential construction, labor unrest, and general business uncertainty—all negative influences.

Auto Makers Confident

Michigan automobile manufacturers—at least, Henry Ford and Alfred Sloan—are confident that 1938 sales will equal, if not exceed, those in 1937.

And as every school boy and girl well knows, Michigan's economic life is geared up to the pace of its leading industry, the automobile industry.

It was the automobile industry that led the recovery parade out of the depression.

Today, its economic value represents 14 1/4 per cent of the national income. Payrolls total $6,300,000,000—a staggering sum. Dividends are one-tenth of that amount—$705,000,000 with interest payments at $642,000,000.

One out of every four jobless has found work directly because of the recovery of the motor industry.

Today, it is the largest purchaser of gasoline, rubber, steel, malleable iron, mohair, lubricating oil, plate glass and nickel and lead.

In taxes alone, the automobile and motor truck make possible an income of one and a half billion dollars each year.

Installment Buying

That the time has come when easy credit in installment buying must be limited is the solemn conclusion reached by financial experts.

According to automobile dealers, financing companies will soon clamp down on long-time contracts. Down payments must be substantial. Eighteen-month time will be encouraged.

Early buyers of automobiles may get "under the wire," so to speak.

Finance companies, now watching the current adjustment of the stock market, are apparently mindful of their troubles during long depression years.

Drinking and Accidents

Michigan's mounting automobile death toll—already a matter of concern to state officials—was given a surprise interpretation in Detroit by Lieut. Franklin M. Kreml, director of the Detroit accident prevention bureau.

Kreml declared at a safety council meeting: "The majority of persons killed in accidents in Detroit within the last year were drunk or had been drinking."

The temperance testimonial was not an advertisement for Michigan's automobile industry or for the legislature's recent liberalizing of liquor rules. It was an unexpected boost for Detroit's municipally operated buses whose drivers, according to an interstate commerce commission official, "are the most careful in the world."

Death Claims

Cliff Durant

The community was shocked the first of the week to learn of the death of Russell Clifford Durant, who died suddenly Saturday afternoon at his home in Beverly Hills, California. He was stricken with a heart attack shortly after dinner and passed away before medical aid arrived.

Cliff was 46 years of age and was born at Flint where he received his early education. He later attended the Pennsylvania Military College and the University of Detroit. He is survived by his widow, the former Charlotte Phillips of Washington, D. C., also his mother, Mrs. Eugene Bottler of Beverly Hills, and his father, W. C. Durant of New York City, founder of General Motors Corporation.

He was a shrewd market operator but was better known to the public as a millionaire racing driver. He followed that game for years, recently giving it up on the plea of his mother. His training in the automobile business began in 1915 when he organized the Chevrolet factory in Oakland, Calif., remaining in charge until his father and General Motors parted company in 1920. He later became head of the west coast division of the Durant Motor Co., manufacturing Star cars, which company was liquidated in 1931.

He entered the auto racing game in 1919 at Elgin, Ill. When racing against Tommy Milton and others his car turned over but he was unhurt. His car careered off the course, knocked down four telephone poles and tangled up in a barbed wire fence.

The "Life Saving" classes which they conduct each year has been the means of teaching adults as well as children precaution on the water and life guards may be had where they are needed, with some help from local chapters.

The relief work which the Red Cross has done this year must be mentioned; the dust storms of the south and west, the Mississippi flood, only one of twenty-four mine disasters and explosions. In short the Red Cross has assisted victims of 128 disasters, 106 of these in the U. S. Disasters have struck 36 states, Alaska and District of Columbia. It has also assisted victims in the Philippine Islands and three foreign countries in answer to calls for assistance from the Red Cross societies there.

It has a program for assisting the disabled service men and his dependents. All claims are investigated, sometimes allowed and sometimes not.

One of the newer things which they have tried to do is to aid the blind in various ways.

The college student who is without means oftentimes finds help through the Red Cross.

For several years our local work has gone on in a quiet way. Flour, a whole carload, and other provisions have been distributed, and with the assistance of the American Legion Auxiliary, several layettes have been made and given to those who needed them, from material sent from headquarters.

This last year it has aided the milk fund of the Grayling school, sent a young man to take lessons in life saving. Let's use him next year. Our response to the call for help during the Ohio flood was wonderful; not only did we almost treble our quota for financial help, but large quantities of clothing and bedding were shipped.

With the aid of the Boy Scouts, our local chapter maintained a First Aid Station at the Winter Sports Park last winter.

There are possibilities ahead, the projects mentioned, nurses, blood transfusions, life guards, classes in health and hygiene are all available to us here if we go after them. But to get them we must have a real live organization.

Plans for next year's work are under way. The roll call for this year will be solicited from all. As usual there will be a booth in the Post Office.

Mrs. C. G. Clippert, president, will be chairman for the 1937 Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross, which starts Armistice Day, Nov. 11th. She has re-joined or joined the "American Red Cross". Fall into the ranks of peace-time fighters, fighting pestilence, disease and hardships, helping those who are less fortunate than ourselves. We need a lot of recruits, the struggles ahead are hard.

Don't forget the meeting Nov. 6th, 3:30 P. M., at the Court house.

FARM HOME OF HEMMING PETERSON DESTROYED BY FIRE

Hemming Peterson of Maple Forest had the misfortune to lose his farm home by fire Monday afternoon, together with most of its contents. Sparks from a chimney had evidently caught on the shingle roof and it had gained much headway before being noticed by Mr. Peterson and his daughter, Miss Martha, who reside there.

While Mr. Peterson was trying to remove some of the contents Miss Martha ran down the road to solicit the help of a road crew who were working about a mile away. The building was in flames when they arrived and they kept the fire from catching onto the barn and other outbuildings. There was no insurance.

IZAAK WALTON MEETING TONIGHT

The Izaak Walton League meeting which is being held in the chambers of the Court house at 8:30 o'clock this evening, is to be an important one. The questions of conservation which will come up should be of interest to all Crawford county citizens. Various members of the local chapter have from time to time offered some good suggestions that should be considered and such members are invited to be present and submit them before this meeting.

A good attendance is hoped for. If you were not asked to become a member it is because the membership committee has been too busy to get around to see you, not because you are not wanted. Be on hand at the meeting, and join.

RANDOM THOTS

What has become of the mustache that Herb Gothro worked on so diligently for three weeks?

Why is it people will use money they haven't earned to buy things they don't need just to impress people they don't know?

People were on their guard early Wednesday for the slippery streets. It's a good practice to keep up.

Most Grayling girls want to marry an economical man but few of them like to be courted by that kind.

Glory be to the hunters! Everyone says, "we're not very busy now, but the hunter will be here soon." Can't even declare a holiday on Armistice day, as the rush is expected to start then.

What will happen at Thanksgiving time, with the Ladies Aid using $80 worth of turkeys for the Post Office dedication banquet?

Seven weeks to Christmas!

It is evident to us that people around town have been pretty nice during the absence of the "boss" by their news contributions.

Wonder how many people around Grayling ever pause to consider that they belong to the generation that their parents worried about.

The discomforts of cold weather and the joy of winter sports.

It's a happy thought of the firemen to be busy repairing old toys to give away to some kiddie at Christmas. If you have any donations they'll be welcome.

Womans Club

Mrs. T. P. Peterson was hostess to the Woman's Club at the opening social meeting of the club year, Monday evening.

Following the business session, Miss Eva Dorr, president of the club, gave the address of welcome. Welcoming the new members into the club.

Miss Beatrice Peterson, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. T. P. Peterson, rendered violin solo, "Melody of Love" by Engleman, which was very well received. A very interesting detailed report of the convention of the Northeastern District at Tawas City was given by Miss Dorr.

Lunch was served by the following committee: Miss Eleanore Tumath, Mrs. Frank Barnett, Mrs. Holger Schmidt, Mrs. Adolph Peterson.

Church Notes

The High School Fellowship gave a delightful Hallowe'en party at the church last Friday night. About forty students attended. This is the first of a series of monthly parties which will be given by the Fellowship.

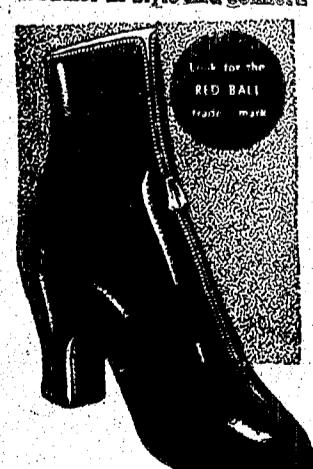

The success of the party was due to the efficient leadership of the committee in charge, consisting of Mary Jane Joseph, Ruth Burrows, Dorothy Miller, and Virginia Peterson.

A program of singing featured the Family Night at the church last Thursday evening.

The recent list of church school teachers was in error in listing Mrs. Gerald Poor as teacher of the sixth grade and in omitting the name of Mrs. Edwin Carlson. Mrs. Poor teaches the seventh grade and Mrs. Carlson the sixth grade.

School Notes

The American Automobile Association representative called on the Grayling schools last week and from him was obtained a collection of seat work on safety topics for the grades. This material is interesting, instructive, and free. For these schools 158 copies were left, and distributed immediately to the teachers.

A high school assembly period was held on October 27 in honor of the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt. The life of the famous president was reviewed by three student speakers. Allen Carr told of the president's early life and entry into politics in New York state. John Henry Peterson described his activities during his crowded years in office following the assassination of McKinley, and Jerrine Peterson concluded his life history with a review of his activities after leaving the White House until his death in 1918. In addition Rev. Edgar Flory spoke briefly on the subject, "Theodore Roosevelt In the World of Today." This was one of a planned series of assembly programs.

Were you one of those numerous persons who said they'd be tickled to death to see another game of basketball? Or were you one of those who missed that game last spring and felt a lot of disappointment as a consequence? The donkey game will be presented next Friday night at the High School Gym, and of this more will be heard later on.

A freshman in college was forced to discontinue her education upon her physician's orders.

This young woman was the only daughter of a highly neurotic and self imposed invalid mother. Each day during the present school term the mother had written long letters in which she vividly pictured her imagined infirmities for her daughter. As a result, the daughter worried so much over her mother's condition that she not only failed her courses but had to be placed under the supervision of a psychiatrist for observation and treatment.

Gutenberg Changed His Name

Investigations tend to show that Johannes Gutenberg changed his real name, Hans Ganzfleisch de Sulzglock, for political reasons and assumed the name of his mother's family, Gutenberg.

In 1910 Lillian Wald, then head resident of the Henry Street Settlement in New York City proposed that the American Red Cross pioneer in the field of rural nursing. Public health nurses were active in urban districts but no similar provision had been made to guard the health of the rural dweller. Miss Wald felt that the Red Cross was best qualified for the undertaking through its long experience in converting humanitarian ideals into practical accomplishment.

Two years later the first Red Cross rural nurse set forth upon her rounds in a county in Massachusetts. Jacob Schiff, member of the Red Cross Board of Incorporators, and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid each contributed funds to start the project.

Special courses of training for nurses resulted in young women who thoroughly knew the mechanics of this new job.

By 1918 there were 100 rural nursing services conducted by Red Cross chapters; and 18 months later the number of services had skyrocketed to 2,000, as the signing of the Armistice released a flood of War nurses for peace-time duty.

"Reorganization and consolidation eventually cut the number of public health nurses serving under the Red Cross flag," Mr. Fleser stated. "But as a group their efficiency increased."

Mr. Fleser called attention to a study of Red Cross public health nursing accomplishments since the service was begun. "Statistics show that in all nearly 8,000 services were established by the Red Cross," he said. "During the past 15 years 6,800 public health nurses were assigned to chapters, and a total of 18,000,000 visits were made to or in behalf of patients."

"Each year during the past 11, more than 440,000 rural school children have been found to have physical defects. Each year 189,000 of these children were helped through treatment."

At the present time there are 666 Red Cross public health nurses engaged in health work in rural communities, and last year more than 1,000,000 visits were made on behalf of the sick.

"It has been our purpose from the first," Mr. Fleser emphasized, "to demonstrate that rural nursing was needed and could be organized. In many instances we have turned established community nursing services over to local health authorities. When this was done, we turned our effort toward opening up additional virgin territory."

Other Red Cross services supported by Roll Call memberships are life-saving; first aid; disaster relief and the work of organized Red Cross volunteers.

DEATH CLAIMS CLIFF DURANT

first cabin, later acquiring several thousands of acres in South Branch township. In 1927 he became active in the stock market and carried on his activities from Detroit but most of the time during the summer season from his camp on the AuSable where he had a private telephone and telegraph service.

In 1930 he built an elaborate summer home on the AuSable river at a cost of around $350,000, not including a $45,000 garage and caretakers' home, also a hanger on his private flying field where he kept several planes. In February, 1931, the home was destroyed by fire along with Oriental rugs, tapestries, valuable paintings and other furnishings valued at $150,000. A few months later the garage was likewise destroyed by fire when struck by lightning. While in Roscommon a few weeks ago he imparted information that he contemplated building another summer home on the stream during the coming year.

In the death of Mr. Durant, Roscommon and Crawford counties suffer a great loss. He was a great booster for this part of the state, loved the outdoors, and was a friend of everybody.

Cowboy Star Visits Grayling

The crowd around the tall man in the lower hall at the High School looked anxious and alert. The reason? They were afraid that Bob Baker, Universal Pictures cowboy star, might get away before he'd autographed their piece of paper. He obliged his public however with a good fifteen minutes of steady signing and left a lot of happy youngsters. Youngsters? Yes, even Senior age youngsters.

Bob Baker put on quite an act for the upper eight grades of the school with singing and fancy rope twirling as well as some good advice about guns.

The tall cowboy movie hero is due back in Hollywood November 7th for the next picture on his schedule. A comparative newcomer to the screen, he has already taken the lead in "Courage of the West" and "Renegade Wrangler." His performance locally pleased in the vicinity of 350. The fifth and sixth grades stayed after school hours to take advantage of the opportunity offered to see Bob Baker.

Baker has been making a tour spreading his fame, and has appeared in schools in countless cities. George Olson, local theatre manager, brought him to Grayling.
